

1867

1912 Dates J-BK

(1833-1896) Alfred Bernhard NOBEL

A Swedish inventor and philanthropist Born at Stockholm. Aided his father in the manufacture of explosives in Russia (1842). Studied mechanical Engineering under John ERICSSON in the U.S. (1850-1854). Invented the gasometer (1857) and an instrument for measuring liquids (1859). In 1867 invented dynamite for or giant powder

of his 129 inventions the more important are dynamite, ballistite, the cochise of smokeless powder, and artificial india rubber.

He owned 15 dynamite factories in different parts of the world. Left his fortune of $9m for the foundation of the NOBEL PRIZES; the interest on which sum is to be divided equally and distributed annually between 5 persons making the most important discoveries in physics, chemistry, medicine; promotion of industrial development, and promotion of universal peace.